

Dear Friends at Syfy,

As a huge fan of your original scripted TV show Haven, I am writing to ask you to renew the show for a fifth season. I look forward to watching the amazing performances from Lucas Bryant, Eric Balfour, and the always excellent Emily Rose every week. Eric Balfour and Lucas Bryant have amazing chemistry as Duke and Nathan, and I can't get enough of their bromance every week! I love how they've gone from bickering enemies to best friends, and I can't wait to see what crazy things they'll do next.

I believe that the combination of nuanced characters who grow and change and take action within the show, and a rich world full of mysteries both ancient and new, is what makes Haven such an amazing show. The balance between the two aspects is a difficult one for any show to strike, and I feel Haven accomplishes it with a delicacy and ease seen on few, if any, other shows currently airing.

I realize this doesn't sound like anything a normal fanperson writes, like you might see on Tumblr or Twitter, but I'm trying to put my love for this show into more normal words. If you look on the web you'll find that Haven has a strong, vocal fanbase that is only getting stronger as the mystery continues. Please renew it for a fifth season so that we can continue discovering the secrets of this supernatural small town.

Thank you,
